

Charlie Arnott is CEO of the Center for Food Integrity and President of CMA, a consulting company with offices in Missouri, Iowa and North Carolina. The Center for Food Integrity is a national non-profit organization dedicated to building consumer trust and confidence in the contemporary US food system.

In his role as president of CMA, Charlie and the CMA team work with leading companies across the food chain, including producers, processors, restaurants, retailers and associations on issues management, communications and public relations. Charlie also co-authors a weekly column in Feedstuffs, the nations' leading agribusiness newspaper.

Charlie spent ten years as vice president of communications and public affairs for a large agribusiness company; he worked for a public relations agency, was an award winning radio journalist and worked in video and film. Charlie grew up in southeast Nebraska and graduated from the University of Nebraska with a Bachelor of Journalism degree.