

Larry Rueff, DVM

Dr. Larry Rueff grew up on a small grain and hog farm in Franklin, Indiana. He enrolled at Purdue University in 1972 and graduated with a B.S. in Animal Science in 1976 and a D.V.M. from Purdue University in 1979. In 2001 he received Purdue University's "Distinguished Agriculture Alumni Award". In 2005, the Purdue University College of Veterinary Medicine awarded him their "College of Veterinary Medicine Distinguished Alumni Award"

From 1979 to 1984 he was an associate of a mixed practice in Greensburg, Indiana with his primary interest in swine.

In 1984 he founded Swine Veterinary Services, which is now a three-veterinarian practice that oversees the health programs of farms that have an annual production of approximately 1,500,000 pigs per year. The emphasis of the practice is on establishing preventative herd health programs and interpreting production and economic records for commercial swine farms.

Dr. Rueff and his wife Gail have been married for 30 years and they have two daughters. Laura is a 4th year medical student at New York University and Erin is a Senior Biology Major at Purdue University. .

Dr. Rueff is a past president of the American Association of Swine Veterinarians. In 2002 he received that organizations award for "Swine Practitioner of the Year"

Dr. Rueff is a partner in a 3,750 sow swine operation.
He also is the owner of 2 Boar Studs that house 250 boars.

Dr. Rueff's clientele are predominantly Indiana swine farms, but he also does international consulting. He has done work in Venezuela, Canada and Asia. In the past 10 years he has made 13 trips to Asia with stops in the Peoples Republic of China, Taiwan, Philippines, Thailand, Korea, Malaysia, and Indonesia.